

CHRIS CORY Biography

Chris Cory: Director, Producer, Executive Producer

Chris Cory is a lover of animals and a lover of films, so DIVA DOG was a perfect opportunity to combine the two. Born in the heart of NYC under a Leo moon, Chris was raised in Montclair NJ. He spent his formative years acting in numerous stage productions and commercials, training at the prestigious Stagedoor Manor (subject of the movie "Camp") and attended Professional Children's School with many of today's successful young actors. Never satisfied to sit idle, he is also a writer, singer, director, producer and UPM. He has produced 9 film projects in the past year. These include "Driving to Zigzigland," a feature to be distributed through Cinema Libre Studios (www.drivingtozigzigland.com), the comedy short "Convincing Benny," which was produced at CBS Radford Studios (www.convincingbenny.com) and the award-winning AFI short "My Backyard Was a Mountain" (www.palmarejofilms.com). His first short "Diamond and Sphinx" was shot on 35mm. Chris wrote, directed, produced, starred in and composed the soundtrack (www.diamondandsphinx.com). Always up for adventure, Chris recently directed and produced a documentary in Guangzhou, China, about the city's culture, business etiquette, ancient history and nightlife. Travel is another of his passions. He became a certified divemaster on the Caribbean island of Utila. He spent several years traveling all over the country in a 4x4 and is currently developing a travel series in the vein of the Lonely Planet guidebooks. Chris's goal is to essentially become his own studio, so he can create projects he believes in and perform in any capacity he chooses (writer, director, actor, producer).
